

CONNECTICUT'S DIRTY LITTLE SECRET...

Bank of America is the largest bank in Connecticut, and took in over $6 BILLION in profits in 2009.

But Bank of America paid virtually NO state taxes on corporate income thanks to loopholes and special tax breaks.

In fact, some of the biggest corporations are making big money in Connecticut, but are barely paying a penny to help our state's budget -- and the law allows them to keep their tax returns under wraps.

It's the dirty little secret we're not supposed to know.

Middle-class families like us are already sacrificing a lot. Big banks drove our economy into the ditch -- now it's time to close the loopholes and require all big corporations to pay their fair share in taxes!

Call state legislators today and tell them:

“Shared Sacrifice” starts with making big corporations pay their fair share!
